

Exploratory Data Analysis

How should I approach exploring my data?

Exploratory Data Analysis (EDA) is a crucial step in the machine learning pipeline and is generally considered necessary when building a machine learning model. EDA involves examining and understanding the dataset you are working with before applying any machine learning algorithms.